CLASSICAL ASSOCIATION OF THE PACIFIC STATES

Northern Section, Seattle area February 5, 1944

To overcome adverse travel conditions this year, the Northern Section was divided into three areas, In the absence of the Yice-president for the Seattle Area, Father Whelley of the University of Portland, President of the Northern Section, appointed Dr. Winifred Weter of Seattle Pacific College to organize a meeting for Seattle.

The meeting was called as a luncheon session at 12:00 noon on Saturday, February 5, 1944 at Tiffany Hall on the campus of Seattle Pacific College. Miss Weter made the introductory remarks and called upon Dr. C. Hoyt Watson, President of Seattle Pacific, who welcomed the group to his campus and said that the Classics, as against the technical subjects, are facing a period of self-defence just as are Christian and character education in general. "Pity the day when we let ourselves as educators become wholly utilitarian and lose our ideals for education in character."

Each one present then introduced himself and the message from Miss Catherine Calouri was given in regard to membership, dues, subscriptions, etc. The group was then dismissed to Peterson Hall.

The first paper, read by Father LaMotta of the Language Department of Seattle College, was entitled, "The Value of Latin in Our Present Day World." Man's greatest gift is the ability to express thought in beautiful language and since Roman literature abounds in such excellent examples as Cicero, Horace and Virgil, it is worthy of study in our lown age.

Miss Lichtenberger of Broadway High School made a report on the status of Latin in the Seattle High Schools. Six out of nine are presenting the full four years, some by virtue of a grouping process. There is the feeling that Latin teachers are doing the bulk of the training in grammar, mythology and ancient history. Miss Culver of West Seattle High School heads the Latin Curriculum Report Committee which is working as part of the Modern Language Reform Committee. There were additional remarks by Miss Bennett and Mr. Jackson, both of Franklin High School.

OHS

Professor Densmore, Chairman of Classical Languages at the University of Washington, presented the Department's problems in finding enough students. Due to the fact that a State institution has neither repuirements nor tradition in classical languages what was expected of them when Miss Lurline Simpson of Romanic Languages, U. of W., asked us to be ancestors (the discipline of our methods is still needed) and to be contemporaries (here-in we fail somewhat).

Professor Erickson of the Philosophy Department at Seattle Pacific then reminded the group that teachers of the classics cannot go back to the "good old days"; we must take time where we are. Classics teachere should take greater reponsibilities for guidance in general cultural education and keep up with the reform which is coming about in the organization of the Liberal Arts as a whole in high schools and colleges. To do this Latin needs revitalizing.

The next paper was on "Realism in Greek Literature" read by Dr. W. M. Read. The purpose of the paper was to point our a few of the special features of Greek realism, viz., the mixing of naturalistic details with pure fancy, the directness and straightforwardness of the Greek's approach to life itself, and the conviction that life had a reason and was not futile. The final was one of encouragement to us for facint the tasks that lie sheed.

Miss Lichtenberger was elected vice-president for the Seattle Area, with responsibility for organizing a like meeting next year. She chose as her assistants Dr. Weter, Miss Simpson, and Father LaMotta.

Respectfully submitted,

Ellen Kohler Secretary pro tem. Wn, Jash. Sia"

The 33rd annual meeting of the Classical Association of the Pacific States met at the University of Portland - March 17, 1945. Rev. Dr. C. C. Miltner, C. S. C., President of the University, extended a most cordial welcome to all.

Dr. A. E. Gordon, University of California, read the opening paper, "Rambles Amid Latin Inscriptions." It had the rare quality of humor and scholarship. From the extant inscriptions, 160,000 in number, he cited examples representative of the various phases of Roman life. School texts are beginning to take advantage of this almost untouched treasure house of Roman life and mores.

Dr. R. F. Arragon, Reed College, followed with a paper on the Independence and Dependence of a Work of Art in the Historical Setting. He gave three main objections to interpreting works of art from an historical viewpoint. However, he proved the role of history in art education is to enable men to see the past in the present - to make us see in ways that we are not accustomed to see and to hear in ways that we are not accustomed to hear - to overcome barriers of understandin.

Rev. Dr. Koessler, Mount Angel Monastery, in his paper "Some Reflections on Conversational Latin", stated that once a student has acquired a working vocabulary conversation can become a part of the teaching technique, thus Latin is made to live as a language. A discussion from the experiences of several teachers followed.

Dr. O. J. Todd, University of British Columbia, gave a paper on the One Circuit of the Sun - A Dilemma. This was a question openly discussing Aristotle's meaning of time and its unity. Dr. Todd is of the wchool who believe that Aristotle meant the passage of the sun across the horizon.

The luncheon was held at L'Abbe. Approximately 50 attened - weather very stormy.

The afternoon session convened at the Municipal Library. The first speaker, Dr. Edna Landros, University of Oregon, presented a paper, "Carmina Burana", based upon a 13th century manuscript and the gargoylesque life of the Godiards.

Post War Latin and Presnt Day Objectives: a Symposium, followed (see program.)

Prof. Wm. Moellering, Willamette University, gave a paper on Survivals and New Arrivals: Latin Usage in Modern Spanish Syntax, in which he emphasised the use of como with the subjunctive.

Wendell V. Clausen, University of Washington, gave a paper on Aristotle as Critic and Spectator: Poetics XIII. The program was concluded.

Fourteen colleges and universities as well as a large number of secondary schools in the Northwest were repersented - from Oregon, Washington, Montana, California, and British Columbia. The Spanish teachers of the Oregon State Teachers Association were special guests of the Classical Association.

The business meeting followed - new officers elected were: Miss Gale Burnett, Los Angètes, President of C. A. P. S.; Dr. A. E. Gordon, University of California, Secretary-Treasurer, succeeding Dean Fred L. Farley who had held the post for tewnty years. Of the Northern Section, Dr. Winifred Weter, Seattle Pacific College, President; Prof. Wm. Moellering, Willamette University, Vice-President; Margaret Smutz, Portland, Sec'y.-Treasurer. Miss Helen Dean sent greetings. The incoming secretary was instructed to write to the sister of Miss Leona Larrabe, telling her of the Association's resolution recognizing the splendid work in the Association and for the Classics.
