The Classical Club of Portland memorializes the Classical Association of the Northwest as follows: We respectfully request the Classical Association of the Northwest to appoint a committee to organize some work perhaps along the lines of the work carried on by the Council of English Teachers. Some such subject as the "Direct method" might be taken up. From time to time this committee would report to the association. We also suggest we also suggest to the association that it might be well to consider whether the meetings of the association should not be held in connection with some large gathering of teachers; such as, the various state teachers associations or the summer sessions at the universities of Oregon and Washington.

Respectfully ^{offered} ~~submitted~~

A. P. McKinlay
President

Portland Classical Club.

Report of meeting - moved and seconded that the Secretary be instructed to send a report of this meeting to the Classical Journal, emphasizing the subject of the direct method - carried

Direct method - Mr. Mc Kinlay moved that the Executive appoint a committee to consider some problem of vital interest, e.g., The direct method and report from time to time - carried

Classical Club Meets at Luncheon

Twenty Latin Teachers, Representing Nearly All Schools in the City, Attend.

The Classical club held its first meeting of the year at a luncheon at Hotel Mallory Saturday. Twenty Latin teachers representing nearly every school in the city in which Latin is taught, were present. Several matters of classical interest were discussed.

Miss Julianne A. Roller, of Franklin high school, and secretary of the Classical Association of the Pacific Northwest, presented programs and plans for the annual meeting of this association at Seattle on November 26-27. It is hoped that a large delegation of Portland teachers will attend. Dr. A. P. McKinlay, of Lincoln high school, president of the local Classical club, presided at the luncheon.

The October number of the Classical Journal contains the name of Miss Julianne A. Roller on the list of associate editors.
